Two local companies successfully promote the Chautauqua County Economy

Jamestown Electro Plating of Jamestown, NY and Vanson Superior Brass of Sinclairville, NY have finalized an agreement that will add jobs and stimulate industry in Chautauqua County and more specifically, Jamestown. Vanson Superior Brass will be fully integrated in to the facility and systems of Jamestown Electro Plating as of the second quarter 2008. "The agreement will immediately secure 10 new positions at Jamestown Electro Plating with promise for additional employment in the near future" says Jay Churchill president of Jamestown Electro Plating.

Jamestown Electro Plating routinely provides the aerospace, automotive, electronics, and decorative hardware industries with an expansive line of electroplating finishes and services. The company has the distinction of achieving NADCAP or National Aerospace and Defense Contractors Accreditation Program with allows them to process high precision and security sensitive product. Established in Jamestown 87 years ago to service local industry the company has expanded through the years but still remains a intricate part of the Jamestown Manufacturing Community.

Vanson Superior Brass has served the decorative hardware and metal finishing industry for over 35 years. As a family owned business located in Western New York, the employees have found incredible satisfaction in providing customers with superb workmanship, custom finish solutions and answers for difficult supply chain issues. Also very noteworthy is the fact that the finishes provided are proprietary and cannot be substituted with offshore outsourcing. The Vanson Brass skilled employees and the Samson brothers bring 35 years of experience and know how to Jamestown Electro Plating.

"Two great companies will now be under the same roof, expanding process capabilities and services. We look forward to providing our customers with additional services and products. The companies combined represent 122 years of metal finishing knowledge and experience, which is value that we are enthusiastically passing on to our customers" says Rob Churchill, Sales Representative with Jamestown Electro Plating.

The Jamestown Electro Plating and Vanson Superior Brass employees have a sense of pride that they are part of companies which will have a positive impact on the local economy. Besides boosting the employment in Jamestown, it is also rewarding to be able to offer our loyal customers a greater line of products and services. "This is truly a win/win deal", says president Jay Churchill.
